

EDUCATION SECTOR PULLS DOWN COST SECTOR PERFORMANCE

Latest data kindly supplied by Horizons FS Ltd. has shown that the cost sector market has only grown by 1.7% between 2004 and 2007 in value terms. Within the cost sector education has actually declined by 2.3% whilst staff catering and healthcare have shown small increases and services have grown significantly by 9.6%.

The biggest factor affecting the education sector is the reduction in the number of meals served with a fall from 2004 to 2007 of a very significant 11.8%. The value of frozen within the education sector now stands at £126 million and has declined by 4.5% which given the number of meals is down by 11.8% shows that either inflation has been significant and delivering the new food based nutrient standards has resulted in increased cost.

The number of outlets hardly changed in 2007 compared to 2004 but there has been an increase in the number of care homes reflecting the growing share of elderly people in the total population.

Whilst the number of meals has declined in the education sector with the decline beginning in 2005 and continuing into 2007 the exception to the rule has been an increase in services which is driven buy both military and penal institutions.

Note: Contract caterers operate in all these sectors

- These sectors are united in that subsidies are a significant operational element for most outlets although this is decreasing, especially in the staff catering (B&I) sector
- The 89,000 or so outlets in this category account for a third - 33% - of all foodservice outlets
- Numbers are rising slowly - driven by increases in the care homes sector which, in turn, reflects the growing share of elderly people in the total population.
